Who we are

The Nayland College School of Music (NCSM) was launched at the beginning of 2016, with financial support from a local benefactor. The aim of the programme is to encourage students to learn orchestral instruments through affordable and accessible tuition in schools within the Stoke Community of Learning. Many students from the original intakes have now progressed to secondary school and are excelling in their musical pursuits.

What we offer...

- Group tuition for 30 minutes
- Tuition provided at your local school, during the school day or after school where applicable
- As students progress, they will be given the opportunity to perform in an instrumental ensemble
- ABRSM / Trinity examination opportunities
- Performance opportunities
